

Wiesbaden, March 7th, 2011

To whom it may concern:

Jessica Issler is still one of the best German female amateur players. She has been European Team champion with Germany when I was in charge as her national coach. That was just before I moved over to the men's team where my main job was to prepare Martin Kaymer for his professional career.

Jessica adopted most of the well- structured contents in technique, course management, mental game and fitness in the exact same way like Martin. Her work with successful golf players as a coach or as a player appears to have plenty of similar habits like the current No 1 player in the world.

Together with her open- minded personality she will be a wonderful support for any coaching structure in the game of golf.

Rainer Mund

Former German National Coach
www.rainermund.de